Lord Methuen had a quiet home coming to England.

Ontario crops are above the average. Chicago market prices were lower.

FLOOD AT CALGARY SUBSIDES.

Calgary, July 11.
Calgary is still three parts isolated, the only way out being by the north. Bridges are still impassable, the Bow river to the east, and Twin bridges to the west. Passengers, baggage and mails are being transferred at these points regularly. The most serious quarter is in the east. Piles are being driven in the Bow and the intention was to jack the bridge on piles, but now the engineer despairs of the feasibility of doing this. The bridge cannot be cleared before the middle of next week. Gentry Bros' circus is stalled here in the meantime. A train will be sent out to Okotoks sometime today. It may not get there and will go no further. Traffic south will not be sure for weeks. The first train from the north arrived yesterday and left today. The river has subsided and the flood is a thing of the past.

DISASTER.

Johnstown, Pa., July 11.
Johnstown, Pa., has again been visited by an appalling disaster. It is only less frightful than the awful calamity of May 31, 1889, in loss of life. It has brought sorrow to hundreds of homes made desolate by a mine explosion which took place in the Cambrian steel company rolling mill mine under West Mount hill, at 12:20 o'clock this afternoon. Two miners who came out of the mine at Mill Creek opening, estimate that 300 of the 600 men at work in the mine got out at that opening. They think the other 300 are still there and probably dead.

LOCAL.

—Train will be from three and a half to five hours late.

—The Rev. G. A. Easum, of Fort Saskatchewan, was in town yesterday.

—L. Fasseu, of Lac la Biche, the Athabasca pilot, was in town this week.

—The Fort Saskatchewan ferry, which was not carried away as stated in last issue, is again in running order.

—Mrs. Geo. McAllister, of East Edmonton, died at the public hospital yesterday. She had been an inmate for eleven days.

—No service will be held in the Methodist church on Sunday evening next owing to the dedication services in the new Presbyterian church.

—Alex. Hamelin, of Lac la Biche, arrived on Thursday, on a business trip. Lac la Biche has had weather like that at Edmonton and crops look well.

—Misses Olla Sandish and Addie Mooney, of Lacombe, who wrote on the recent teachers examinations, returned home on Wednesday's train.

—The Presbyterian church choir will hold the first annual concert in the new church, July 18th. Musicians from all churches in town are taking part.

—Orange celebration to-morrow in Strathcona. Lodges from Fort Saskatchewan and Wetaskiwin will take part.

—The Presbyterian choir of 30 voices will render the anthem, "Hark! Hark! My Soul," by Harry Rowe Shelly, at the choir concert, July 18th.

—Hay, old and new, is coming in slowly. Yesterday a few loads were sold on the market from $10 to $12 per ton. Feed oats are plentiful at 28c to 30c.

—K. A. McLeod has a large gang at work digging a cellar beneath the new McLeod block. As soon as the excavation is complete it will be built up with solid brick walls.

—A banquet will be given by the Young Men's Liberal Association, of Edmonton, in honor of Frank Oliver, M. P., in the Queen's Hotel, on Friday evening, July 25th, at 8:30 p. m.

—E. Brosseau left Edmonton with his crew on Tuesday morning at 7 a. m., and arrived at Victoria the following morning at 9 a. m. Victor Mann and Larry Mannels were on board.

—The following settlers arrived last train and are stopping at the immigration hall: T. H. Tremblay, Monn, J. Marchand and wife, Hugh Waugh, C. F. Robit, Indr, Frank Morich, Colorado.

—Work on the Blackfriars' Steamship Co's building, on the corner of 2nd street, H. B. H., is progressing rapidly. The roof is already closed in and the lining of the first floor about completed.

—Gardiner and Dalton commenced work preparing for laying the foundation of the power house for the water-works and electric light. They expect to be ready to commence building on Monday.

—Since the weather cleared up, the masons at the foundation of the addition to W. Johnston Walker block, have made great progress. Heavy iron joists and pillars are ready to be placed in position.

—J. S. Macdonald, supt. of government telegraph, is in the west. Drove out to Stony Plain this morning to look over the project of establishing telephone connection between the agency and Edmonton.

—A number of men and teams are employed opening up for the large basement of the new hotel about to be erected opposite McDougall & Secord's establishment. The basement will be 50 feet by 65 feet.

—The first number of the Western Press, the official organ of the Western Canada Press Association, is to hand. It is a very good specimen of printing and is full of news and information for printers and publishers.

—Rev. E. B. Glass, of Whitefish Lake has been appointed to the Methodist mission work at Snowflake, Manitoba, Mr. and Mrs. Glass expect to leave to-morrow after a residence of eighteen years in the Edmonton district, engaged in Indian mission work.

—For the last three days the government road scraper has been at work on Kinsistino, Namayo, Fraser and Jasper avenues. The machine is drawn by eight horses and is operated by two drivers and one man regulating. The roads have been much improved.

—Bible practice, at the range on Groat's Flat, will be held every Saturday afternoon. Squad leaders should round up their men in order to ensure a good attendance. A bus will leave the armory, next door to the Edmonton Carriage Co's office, at 2 o'clock sharp.

—All the contracts for material and construction connected with municipal electric light, waterworks and sewers have now been awarded as follows: viz: Laying of sewer and waterwork mains to Jackson, Dobson & Fry, Winipeg; erection of power house and mountain; waterworks mains, etc., to the Canada Foundry Company, Toronto; hydrants to Ross Bros, Edmonton; sewer pipe to J. A. Stovel, Edmonton; brick to Little & Company, Edmonton; cement to Councillor Sharp, Winipeg.

—Joseph St. Pierre, aged 18, charged with stealing a watch and suit of clothes, two charges, was brought up for sentence at 2 p. m. this afternoon. A petition signed by a large number of citizens of Strathcona and also of Edmonton was received by His Lordship Justice Scott, asking him to deal leniently with the accused. The court thought inclined to be influenced by the wording of the petition was compelled to give some punishment as an example to others to show such acts could not be committed with impunity. The prisoner was therefore sentenced to two months, with hard labor, at Fort Saskatchewan for each offence.

THE SPUR TRACK.

And still no move is made to put the spur track between Strathcona and Edmonton in shape for traffic. It is a year since work on this four miles of railway was commenced and at the present rate of progress it will be forever before it is finished. Two months have gone by since the last of the rails were laid, and there is no more appearance of the road being opened for traffic than there was before the first rail was laid. It is true that the very wet weather of May damaged the newly built road bed to that considerable repairs will be needed before trains can be run. But no effort is being made to repair the damage. The Edmonton, Yukon and Pacific company are under agreement with the town to operate the spur from the first of December last. They have neither fulfilled their agreement, nor tried to fulfill it, in spirit or in letter. They have advertised to the country that their undertakings are not worth anything. Presumably this makes no difference to the company, but the public should consider well whether it is safe to enter into future agreements with a company which deliberately and incessantly violates its agreements as the Edmonton, Yukon & Pacific has done. The crop of the district is advancing rapidly and there will be great need of elevator accommodation here in the coming fall if present indications hold. Even should the company decide to complete their spur and operate it in the fall it will not be of the same value without elevators as with them, and if they do not operate until fall there will be no time to erect them. In view of the evident lack of push in the construction operations of the Canadian Northern this year at the eastern side of the prairies, and therefore the length of time that it will take for the through line to reach this district, together with the utter regardlessness of obligations shown by the company in connection with the spur, it would be well for Edmonton people to cast about for other means of securing railway connection and railway extension in this district.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN LIBERALS.

The special general meeting of the Fort Saskatchewan Liberal Association was held on July 8th, as announced. Although the roads were in most places almost impassable there was a fair attendance. Several letters of regret were sent from different places stating that it would be impossible for the parties to attend owing to conditions of roads. The president stated that the business of the meeting was to elect officers for the coming year and appoint delegates to attend the liberal convention at Calgary on the 11th inst.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Dr. P. Aylen, president; G. Doze, vice-president; G. T. Montgomery, secretary-treasurer;

Executive committee: W. G. Davis, Duncan Cranston, Elsworth Simmonds, John Hare, and Alford Shackleton.

The following are the delegates to attend the convention at Calgary on the 11th inst.: Dr. P. Aylen, M. D.; G. Doze, A. Shackleton, D. Lawford, R. Stewart, R. Houston, H. Belcher and G. T. Montgomery, secretary.

SNEAK THIEF.

Wm. McKenney, a half-breed, was brought up on Wednesday afternoon before Magistrate Cowan charged with having, during the previous night, entered the camp of D. L. McLean, D. L. S., who was camped on the premises of Messrs. McDougall & Secord, and stole a pocket knife and the sum of $4.00 in cash, the property of the said Mr. McLean, who heard someone moving around the camp but thought it was one of his own party. On Thursday morning the articles were missed and information was given to the police.

Constable Dean, without any clue, very cleverly managed to locate the culprit, who exhibited considerable skill in evading arrest. McKenney, unfortunately for himself, had the knife with Mr. McLean's initials thereon, in his possession. He was sentenced to go to jail for labor for the term of three months and was handed over to Northwest Mounted Police on Wednesday evening.

LETHBRIDGE BRIDGE GOES.

Lethbridge, Alberta, July 4.—Although the rain ceased falling here, the river is still rising and is already above the level of the great flood. This morning the centre span of the large traffic bridge, also the false work for the new structure and the pile driver and materials were carried away. The Pot Hole has risen flood level and threatens destruction to those along its banks.

TOWN COUNCIL.

A meeting of the council was held on Wednesday evening. The following members were present: The mayor, councillors Gallagher, Goodridge and Heimbeck. At the opening of the meeting, Mr. Cushing appeared on behalf of Cushing Bros., re the water tank on McDougall street near the Imperial Bank, attempting to show cause why his firm should not, at their own expense, do any further repairs to the said tank.—The council decided that if Cushing Bros., could not see their way clear to do the necessary repairs to prevent the leakage, the town have the work done immediately and take legal advice as to the responsibility of the builders of the tank, which had from the first failed to hold water.

The minutes of the last meeting and adjourned meetings were read and adopted.

The following communications were read by the secretary, viz:

T. A. Stephen, municipal auditor, stating that the accounts of the town had been audited and found correct, and enclosing report, with financial statement.—Report of auditor adopted.

From Mr. McNaughton regarding the position of overseer or inspector of public works during construction, which are already in progress. Suggesting at the same time some competent person be put in temporary charge of the electric light station, until completion of the works and that he then return to his present position.—Laid on the table.

Accountant of the department of agriculture re cheque for payment of small pox accounts.—Fyied.

Cushing Bros., asking permission to build crossings to connect with their premises.—Permission granted providing that the town be put to no expense.

The Review Company, Peterboro, Ontario, re the printing of debentures.—Fyied.

Deputy commissioner of agriculture, Regina, re maintenance of Kenneth McKay, agreeing to pay the sum of $10 to defray past expenses and offering to contribute the sum of $10 per month towards future expenses.—The secretary was instructed to write stating that the offer is accepted.

Communication, signed by a number of ratepayers, on behalf of Mrs. Cummings, who has been ill in the public hospital, and who is aged and unable to support herself and asking the town to take immediate action to provide shelter and means of living.—Referred to health and relief committee with power to act, for the present, and that the secretary be instructed to confer with the Northwest government regarding the future.

Mr. McNaughton re Robb Engine Co., as to change in the cylinder dimensions of the new engine; and for parts for the repairs to the old engine.—Referred to fire, water and light committee with power to act.

Canadian Electric Company re matters in connection with the wire and transformers for the new system and suggestions as to the different sized wire and their carrying capacity.—Referred to fire, water and light and Councillor Goodridge with power to act.

It being now 11 p. m., time was extended one hour.

Report of hall and market committee regarding the temporary removal of the pound to lot 57, block 8.—Referred back to the committee to make any temporary arrangements and to provide means to abate the nuisance more thoroughly.

By-law No. 226.—To amend by-law No. 190, respecting dogs;

(1) The said by-law 190 is hereby amended by inserting in clause 6 thereof before the word "captured" the words "killed or";

(2) The said by-law is further amended by adding to clause 10 thereof the words "and any constable finding any such bitch running at large may kill the same." The rules were suspended and the by-law read a third time and passed.

A motion was passed authorizing the corporation to borrow such sums of money as may be required from time to time to carry on the municipal works, with power to hypothecate debentures for this purpose.

The payment of the following accounts was recommended and passed:

Oristall's clothing establishment, which was being pulled on to the corner of McDougall street and Jasper avenue. Mr. Oristall will immediately erect a building 30 feet by 60 feet on the space left vacant.

—A company has been organized recently to operate an anthracite coal deposit existing on the south fork of the Red Deer river about twenty miles north of Banff. The vein is extensive and unbroken and a large tract of land has been secured. The scheme includes a railway from some point on the C. & E. line. J. R. Costigan, of Calgary, is the organizer of the company.

—The attention of all dog owners is called to the amendment to the by-law relating to dogs, passed by the council on Wednesday night. All dogs, now running at large, who do not carry the license tag, will be shot by the police who are empowered to carry out the law. Parties who have procured a license for their dogs and who may have lost the tags may procure duplicates for 25c. A licensed dog without a tag is just as liable to be destroyed as one for which no license has been paid. The authorities are determined to enforce the law to its full extent.

EDMONTON BULLETIN JULY 11th, 1902

THE FAIR.
While congratulating ourselves on the result of the exhibition there are certain points connected with it of which we have no great reason to be proud. One of these is the small show of local purebred cattle. While there was a fine show of purebred short-horns and hereofords the show was made by outside exhibitors. The herds of Messrs. Talbot and Palmer, of Lacombe, and Bennie, of Castle Avery, Manitoba, were the strength of the show in cattle. In proportion as these gentlemen deserve credit for their enterprise in coming so far to exhibit the farmers and stockmen of the country immediately surrounding Edmonton show at a disadvantage. Of course had like interest and enterprise been shown by local men there were not nearly enough sheds on the grounds to accommodate what would have been offered. But the exhibition directors would only have been too happy to supply the deficiency, as they did on short notice in the case of horses. Farmers sitting at home or keeping their stock there will never decide whether they have the best or only the next best animal. The way to find out the measure of success achieved is to judge by results, after comparison. It is no use for a farmer to say, "I had just as good stock at home as were at the fair." Perhaps he had and perhaps he had not. Neither he nor anyone else can be sure unless and until the animals are seen together. Every practical man who was at the show will admit that the decisions given and the comparisons which he was enabled to make gave him a better understanding of what was required in his work. The decisions can only be given and the comparisons made if the cattle are brought out. And the more are brought out the more valuable the decision and comparison.

The cash value to result from the establishment of the purebred stock industry in this district must be amply evident. As was pointed out at the agricultural dinner, we have special advantages over Ontario and the United States, and in our milder winters, and more abundant and rich crops we have a distinct advantage over other parts of the Canadian West. A few of our farmers raising $100 calves instead of $10 ones would very considerably increase the wealth of the district, but the principal increase would come from the general improvement certain to result whereby the cattle of the district would become high priced choice animals instead of the low priced scrubs which so many of them are. North Alberta should be the choice part of the Dominion as a breeding ground for purebred cattle. What has been done at Lacombe shows what can be done elsewhere. There is no reason why Mr. Talbot's prophecy as to taking prizes at Toronto should not come true, and more than true, before many years. If any better way of helping out that result can be suggested than by holding a first class yearly show fair at Edmonton it is in order to make the suggestion. If there is no better way, then self interest should induce every stock raiser on either a large or small scale in Northern Alberta to take an active interest in the fair.

But if the local men were short on pure bred cattle they were long on hogs. The show of blacks, both Berkshires and Poland Chinas, and of Tamworths was most creditable. The animals were evidently well bred and well cared for. The number and kind of hogs shown is an indication of the prominence which the hog raising branch of farming is reaching here. The feed raised is adapted to making bacon and hams of the first quality at a moderate cost. Hogs have proven profitable and are a strong standby of many if not most of the best farmers in the district. Three local packing houses—not all on an equal scale but all in business—are good enough evidence of the substantial hold which hog raising has taken in this district.

The show of farm horses included some very good animals. It was local and it was not small. But the small number of stallions showed that the men who are most interested in improving the horses of the district did not take an active interest in the show. This was a pity and a mistake as well. Unless the stallions of the different classes are shown there is little advantage from a breeder's point of view in showing other horse stock.

The almost total absence of sheep would indicate that they are almost extinct in the district. And measurably speaking that would not be very far from the truth. For one reason or another sheep raising has been going backward rather than forward in this district during recent years. One reason given is the losses by coyotes, and probably this is the principal reason. With coyotes around it is cheaper for most farmers to do without sheep than to protect them from the coyotes. Besides the great usefulness of the sheep in Eastern Canada in the early days—the home manufacture of the wool—is lacking here. A spinning wheel is a curiosity in a farm house. The woolen factory and the knitting factory, strange to say have killed off farm bands of sheep as completely as the coyotes. Sheep are now raised on the farm to supply fresh meat in summer rather than for the sake of the wool.

The horse races were said to be very good by those who are expert in such matters. Certainly a number of horses were brought from long distances at great expense. Local horsemen competed in the several races, and there was a good opportunity to see just what these local horses could do. A horse race is nothing of itself, and a horse race by his winning does not serve any useful purpose. But the race horse is the highest development of horse flesh, and a horse race is a demonstration of the climax of human skill applied to the development, training and management of the most intelligent and most universally useful of all the animals. The interest which horse races always excite is therefore not to be wondered at. They are admitted to be the great attraction of all agricultural fairs. For they are a part of the show that every one that is alive and can see takes an interest in. It is right therefore that large prizes should be offered for the horse races. For that is the only way to ensure an interesting race, and that is the surest way to draw a crowd and swell the gate receipts. It should not be forgotten that after all it is the gate receipts which make the fair possible and therefore that the spectators who furnish the gate receipts are entitled to consideration in the horse races. The better the spectators are entertained the larger the gate receipts will be another year. If they are dissatisfied with the entertainment received the effect will be felt in next year's gate receipts. People come to the show very largely to see the horse races. And it is only good business to bring the races on promptly so that the crowd will have as little waiting between races as possible. They came out prepared to spend the afternoon it is true; but it is not to spend the afternoon but to see the races that they came. To keep three to five thousand people waiting for from a quarter to half an hour between races is not good business, even though the horse race should be put to some slight inconvenience in bringing them on more quickly. The hosts of the different races alternate so that there is no need of delay, and it should not be allowed to occur.

STO Y PLAIN RESERVE
A. W. Pomton, D. L. S., of the Indian department survey, has completed the work of subdividing the northern two miles of the Stony Plain reserve. The reserve is seven miles in length from east to west. The portion subdivided therefore contains 56 quarter sections. The easterly two miles of the strip is not on the plain. It lies in the low partly timbered and partly swampy land east of the plain. But the remaining 48 quarter sections are magnificent land, near town and with large settlements adjoining to the north and west. The Indians have agreed to surrender this two mile strip so that it may be sold, they of course getting the benefit of the price paid. The sale will probably be made some time this summer. The usual practice is to offer such lands for sale in quarter sections by tender subject to an upset price. It will be of great advantage to both the Indians and the settlers to have this land sold. A valuable wealth producing and taxable area will be added to the region convenient to town, and the Indians will receive a yearly income far in excess of any value the land was or would ever be to them.

A COMPLAINT.
Editor Edmonton Bulletin.
Will you kindly answer through your columns whether Mr. William Taylor, of the Sturgeon river settlement, on the old Athabasca Landing trail, has the right to charge 25c per team to pass through his field; as this road is the only possible way for loaded teams to reach the Sturgeon river bridge on the Athabasca Landing trail. Mr. William Taylor's farm takes in the old trail. He has run his fence into a muskeg and the road around his fence is impossible to pass over with heavy loads. It is the scheme of some of the farmers of the old Landing trail to build their fences so that the road will pass through swamps and mud-holes, then extort money from the public to pass through their farms. One farmer charged fifty cents for assisting a lady with her horse and rig out of a mud hole. (And this is what they call accommodation). Now, it remains for our member of parliament or our member of the Northwest council to take immediate action on this imposition on the public, as it may cause trouble sooner or later.
Now a word on the surveyed road between the Fort Saskatchewan road and the Sturgeon bridge. Last summer it was surveyed and about $1,000 was spent on this road. Now it will take twice that amount more to make it passable for heavy loads. What is to be done? The public is waiting anxiously for developments.

FROM MANITOBA
One of the foremost exhibitors of stock at the Edmonton fair last week came from Manitoba. This fact has two sides, one is that Alberta is sufficiently and favorably known as to attract a Manitoba breeder of thoroughbred short-horns to one of its annual fairs; the other is that the would-be exhibitor, who brings his stock over 1,000 miles, must have more than the ordinary push and enterprise.
Mr. Bennie, who is associated with his brother, was born and brought up on a farm at Kilgus, about 12 miles from Glasgow, Shropshire, where he spent the earlier years of his life. Soon this young Scot became restless, the land he had did not offer inducements sufficiently attractive to keep him at home; in South Africa, there was excitement, and there he went. He got as far as Kimberley where, having a good knowledge of cattle, he embarked in the dead meat trade. But after 6 years residence in that climate he contracted rheumatism, for this ailment he took the advice of no less a noted fellow, than Dr. Jamieson of the Jamieson ranch, and was advised to leave the country for another climate. He returned to Scotland, where he made but a short stay, then accompanied by his brother William, he came to Canada, proceeding at once to Castle Avery, Manitoba. This settlement is north of Moosemin and forty miles from the railway. The Bennie ranch, which is 7 miles from the post office, was certainly well chosen, though the brothers had to squat for four years before they could secure the homesteads of their choice. The squatters now utilized to advantage their experience in handling beef cattle, in buying steers from the farmers and selling to dealers.
Four years ago these dealers not being satisfied with the class of cattle in their neighborhood they decided to introduce improved stock. With this object in view they purchased a herd from that well known Canadian breeder of short-horns, Dr. Edwards, of Rockland. This venture cost $3,000, but gave them a start with 2 bulls, 11 cows and 11 calves. Notwithstanding some of the progeny has been disposed of to advantage each year, the herd now consists of 65 head, some of which were exhibited here and carried off 8 prizes, viz: 2 first and 6 seconds.

These breeders do not confine their attention to cattle alone but devote a share of their capital and time to raising thoroughbred Clydesdale horses of which they own 12 head. Aberdeen, 2nd prize at the Toronto and Winnipeg fairs, stands in their stables as well as a 2 year old filly of McQueen, who sired the champion at the World's Fair and others of fine strain and long pedigree.
On the farm 100 acres of land are cultivated principally in oats, the whole of the produce is devoted to feed for the stock. These settlers are quite satisfied with Canada, and particularly Manitoba, especially their own neighborhood. This applies to the whole settlement, who are nearly all like themselves, Scotchmen. Some of whom were shepherds in the "old country," and are now well to do farmers, though they started with little or nothing.

Thirty miles north of Castle Avery there is a Doukalski settlement. These people live in a village; their farming being done in community. Some work out and in the summer time, the women devote their attention to gathering seneca root. To do this they camp out on the prairies and often make as much as $5 per day. These people are industrious, law abiding and are not looked upon with the same disfavour as extended to the Galicians who are settled some distance further north.

The bad weather and consequent washouts, which combined have caused the postponement of the Calgary fair, is a disappointment to this pilgrim exhibitor.
The show of thoroughbreds from Manitoba and other points will doubtless result in inducing some, at least, of the farmers around Edmonton to improve their stock.

In the near future let the motto of the Edmonton farmers be "What we have we hold," and thus endeavor to keep the prize money at home.

PROFITABLE CATTLE RAISING.

While at Edmonton, Mr. Duncan Anderson, who came here under instructions from the Northwest government, to act as judge of exhibits at the fair, gave some very interesting and instructive information regarding the breeding and raising of cattle. Northern Alberta, said the speaker, is particularly adapted to both beef and dairy stock. With reference to the first named, the most important question to decide at the outset is, "the breed of cattle you intend to raise. No matter what you choose, be it Short-horn, Hereford, Galloway or Friesian, keep to the one and grade up. From this course, experience has proved that the best results are attained. Having decided on this point, now choose your bull—this should be in every case the very best obtainable. When making your selection the fundamental qualities required are: 1st constitution; 2nd aptitude to lay on flesh cheaply and quickly; and 3rd having the proper conformation or shape so that, when finished, the product will find a ready sale.

The exterior indications of a good constitution are: A good broad forehead, prominent brisket, wide breast and a thick heart girth.

The farmer must not lose sight of the fact that he is to not only intend and purposes a manufacturer. Here in Northern Alberta he is a long way from market and must therefore, as much as possible, condense his products. The man who sells nothing but the actual grain crop off his farm is a "chever of wood and drawer of water." He gets but the bare profit, but the man who converts the raw material, raised on the farm, by feeding cattle and hogs, gets a double profit. For it is from this finished product that the profit is realized. The manufacturer, or farmer in this instance, who has the ability to work up the by-products is a success. The by-product of the farmer is the "skim milk."

The beef animal, cow or steer, has been aptly compared to a machine. A manufacturer who runs his machinery with a boiler which requires half the fuel expended by his competitor is making just so much more profit than the whole cost of the extra fuel. So it is with the farmer and his steers; the animal that requires double ration to put on beef is making only half the profit of the economical feeder and is, therefore, an unprofitable machine.

The native steer is an unprofitable machine. He is too bony and angular and, when fed, puts on tallow instead of beef. The former is worth 40 per lb. and the latter 18c in the Chicago market. It is, therefore, in the judgment of selection and successful breeding that the intelligent farmer exhibits his skill.

A short time ago a test was made by the agricultural college, Iowa, U. S., the result of which will doubtless be of interest to those engaged in stock raising. Two steers, of the same size, were selected one a grade Jersey, the other a grade Hereford, each received the same food, care and attention for nine months. The Jersey grade would be about the same shape as a native steer. Both animals showed about the same daily gain (2 lbs.). Both were sent to Chicago the same day. On that day twenty-six thousand head were sold in the stock yards. The Hereford brought just $225 per 100 lbs. live weight more than the Jersey. For this reason, both steers were followed to the block—the Jersey weighed 763 lbs. carcass weight, made up as follows: 199 lbs. internal tallow, 35 lb. fat, or 234 lb. tallow and suet, equal to 32 per cent. of the whole; this left 518 lbs. meat and bone, but not much tenderness which, that day was worth 18c per lb. Practically one-third of this animal was tallow worth only 5c per lb. Steers of this kind are "unprofitable machines." The Hereford scaled 888, with but 65 lbs. tallow and 38 lbs. suet, equal to 133 lbs. or 15 per cent. of the whole leaving 755 lbs. meat and bone, with a large percentage of meat on the back. This truly was a "profitable machine."

The best general indications of a good feeder are: A fairly large mouth, open nostril and prominent eye. But, with these, those that never fail are: A loose, mellow, pliable skin of medium thickness and a soft silky coat, for these are actually the evidences of the digestive power of an animal.

The type of the good beef animal as pointed out by Mr. Anderson, while in the prize ring, on the fair ground, was thus described:—"A masculine head, short round thick neck, wide as possible on top of the shoulders and behind the shoulders, (never buy any animal with a narrow crop, for he is generally a poor feeder and never years when he is fed), the ribs must be well sprung, running out at right angles from the back bone, in order to give a broad back and room to put on beef, that is the tenderloin and the most profitable part of a beef animal. From the hoof to the tail head, there should be no drop, in fact from the rise of the shoulder, the top should be straight, level and broad. From the tail head to the back should be meaty, that is a right angle as near as possible. From the bottom part of the thigh to the brisket should be a fairly straight underline. The general appearance of a "winner" can be summed up as a short legged, low set, wide mouthed animal. This is the "profitable machine."

The critical times in the life of a beef animal are in the first months and weaning time. If weaned in the fall and put on dry feed exposed to the stormy winter blast, it soon runs down. It should be comfortably housed and well cared for and fed on chopped oats and bran, if no roots, with hay, straw and chaff. By this treatment it gains a year as it is in a condition to feed up as soon as the new grass grows in the spring. No animals prosper as well as those who get excellent roots such as turnips and mangolds and nothing grown in roots, for stock, excels the "Swede," though for cows they have certain objectionable effects. All young stock should be fed a liberal supply of roots with hay and bran for the first winter at any rate. In feeding grain the best results have always been attained by giving a mixed ration rather than by feeding any one single kind of grain.

The dairy cow, in conformation is almost the opposite of the beef animal. The head should be fairly small, fine and clean, that is somewhat after the lines of a thoroughbred horse. A mild, prominent and large, but not wild eye. Broad between the eyes and of fair length from the eyes to the nostrils. Neck long, thin and flat. The shoulders should be thin and flat and run up like the withers of a horse. The good cow is this at the thigh with the flank well cut up, in order to give under room. The ribs, from the back bone, sharp and widening out backwards. The front view of a good animal is wide behind and narrowing towards the front and may fairly be described as wedge shaped.

Still it must be borne in mind that the only sure way to estimate the quality of a dairy cow is with the milk pail and the Babcock test.

The sole way to breed good dairy cows is by weeding out the scrubs, by improving the stock and by educating. Good housing, proper care and attention, with patience and kindness is the price of success in breeding good dairy cows.

Neglect and the "good enough" style of cattle keeping, which means the animals standing out in the cold all day and being tied up in an open draughty building all night, will result in failure for the "butter fat is blown out of the milk."

The good dairy cow is a scientific product, the result of experiment and enterprise of generations.

No country is better suited than Northern Alberta for the production of both the beef animal, particularly the stall fed, and the ideal dairy cow. All the requisites are at hand or obtainable. The best of native grasses in abundance, a country admirably suited to the successful raising of grain of all kinds and cultivated grasses when required, with a root producing soil and climate second to nothing in the world and a market of great possibilities to the westward capable of unlimited expansion. The laws of evolution will surely not fail here. For we had the Indian and the buffalo then the rancher and grass fed steer. These will eventually give way to the farmer and the stall fed bullock and fine dairy cow.

The western rancher of the United States is already crowded out for want of grass and is crossing the line, where in time the conditions will become the same as those which compel him to move. The result will be the "survival of the fittest."

THOROUGHBOREDS AT THE FAIR.

Plainsdealer, July 4.
The first stall visited was that occupied by the first prize yearling Short-horn bull owned by Mr. S. R. English, of Strathcona, lately from Griswold, Manitoba. The animal was bred by Mr. English in Manitoba. He took 2nd prize last year at both Winnipeg and Brandon fairs in his class as a bull calf. He arrived from Manitoba about Dec. 1st last, and never saw the inside of a stable until May 24th, since which date he has been fed for showing. Mr. Anderson considers him a rare animal and used him to illustrate his lecture yesterday on beef breeds. Mr. English brought into the country with him sixty-three head of cattle, fourteen head of which are purebred and may be considered a valuable addition to the stock of Northern Alberta.

Our next visit was paid to the herd of Mr. P. Talbot, M.L.A., for Lacombe, which were big winners in the Short-horn class. His three-year-old bull took first prize and sweepstakes. He is a magnificent animal weighing 2,300 lbs. He was sired by Royal Member, imported, and dam Rosa Lee, imported in dam, and was bred by Cargill & Sons, Cargill, Ontario. Mr. Talbot's other cattle shown were: Myflower, a cow bred by Tuck, of Moberly, Ont.; 2nd prize; Mischief, 2-year-old heifer, bred by D. Talbot, of Everton, Ont.; 1st prize; Kirk Livingston Lady, yearling heifer, bred by Myer, of Kosuth, Ont.; 1st prize; Cootie Blossom Forth, bred by the owner. The herd took first prize, the competition included stock from Manitoba, Ontario and Southern Alberta.

Canadian Casualties.

Ottawa, July 3.—The militia department received a cable last night saying that Farrier Wm. Hunter, who enlisted in Winnipeg with the fourth contingent and was wounded at Hart's river, died at Elmsfontein, June 3.

Frederick Clarke, of Montreal, who is also with the same regiment is seriously ill with tuberculosis of the lungs at Hawick.

Trooper Redswell, of Medicine Hat, is still reported seriously ill.

NEWS OF THE WASHOUTS.

The first mail since Thursday evening last arrived on Wednesday morning. The train left the washout in the Nose Creek Valley, about three miles north of Calgary, on Tuesday evening about half-past five.

The only washouts that had occurred on the C. & E. north of a point within a couple of miles of Bow river were at Didsbury. They were comparatively small and had been repaired by the crew of the train which went south Saturday. The only train that was north of the Bow when the break occurred. It was the mixed train, conductor Chapman. It brought north three coaches filled with passengers, besides a very heavy mail, and reached Edmonton without mishap on Wednesday morning about 7 o'clock. It returned south on Wednesday about four o'clock p. m. The heavy rains which did the damage seemed to be chiefly south of Olds. North of Olds the rain had not been nearly so heavy.

The flood at Calgary and south is the most serious on record. The train from the east was delayed during Friday by a washout at Langdon a few miles east of Calgary. And where the washout had been repaired in front another occurred behind. This train crossed the Bow bridge into Calgary on Saturday morning and was the last train to do so. Shortly after it passed over the bridge the centrepier split so that it became impossible for trains.

The country at Langdon is level prairie, usually dry. While the train was held there by the washout, rivers were running over the prairie. The houses near the station were standing in water and were reached from the station by boats.

The next train after Saturday's to reach the Bow bridge had to discharge passengers and mails on the east side. The passengers walked over the bridge and the mails were carried. Another train took both to Calgary station. This will have to be done until a temporary bridge can be put in which will take some weeks, as nothing can be done until the river falls.

West of Calgary there was no travel after Friday. The track was gone at Shaganappi point, one of the Twin bridges was gone and there were other washouts. It was hoped, however, that transfers to and from the west could be made on Wednesday. The water fell three feet on Tuesday.

The Langer traffic bridge across the Bow was out of water but the approaches were covered. Passengers for the north were ferried to and from the bridge and were then taken by team to the C. & E. train above the washout on Nose Creek. The Calgary & Edmonton railway bridge is thought to be still sound, but the track is washed away at both ends. The full damage cannot be estimated, nor the damage repaired until the waters go down.

South of Calgary the washouts on the C. & E. towards Macleod are reported to be very numerous and very bad. Travel is entirely suspended.

STRATHCONA.

Plainsdealer, July 4.
Manager Kains, of the Imperial Bank, and his bride got home on Wednesday from their wedding trip.

Principal MacKenzie left on Saturday for Moose Jaw where he acts as presiding examiner at the teachers' examinations.

Mr. J. F. Bryant, B. A., of the public schools here, has been offered by the department of public instruction a lucrative position as principal of the schools at White Horse in the Yukon.

On our desk this week is laid another of those prodigious eggs for which Northern Alberta hens are becoming famous, from the poultry yard of Mr. G. Lovelock. The egg measures 6-1-2 inches around the equator and 7-3-4 inches around the poles.

Edmonton's fair for 1902 has passed into history and may be set down as the best exhibition in many ways that has ever been held in Northern Alberta. It was blessed with royal weather, none more suitable could have been desired. Coming at a season when farmers could spare time to attend without neglect of pressing duties at home a tremendous crowd turned out. In fact the gathering was the most representative of the farming interest of Northern Alberta ever held and a larger gathering of townspeople of the district never assembled. Almost every town in Alberta was represented and trainloads came from the towns north of Red Deer.

HOMESTEAD ENTRIES.

Homestead entries in the Edmonton land district amounted to 1033 in 1899, to 1633 in 1900, and to 2144 in 1901. The Edmonton agency includes the sub-offices of Strathcona, Fort Saskatchewan, Leduc, Wetaskiwin and Ponoka.

Tenders for Indian Beef.

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tenders for Beef" will be received at this office, up to noon of Wednesday, 16th July, 1902, for the delivery of twenty-five thousand pounds (25,000) more or less, of fresh beef, at Stony Plain Indian Agency and Alexander's Indian Reservation. Particulars of said contract can be seen by application to the undersigned.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The school trustees held a meeting last evening at which the following were present: Alex. Taylor, chairman; H. C. Taylor, K. A. McLeod, M. McCauley. It was decided to engage Mr. Rea as principal of the public and high school, at a salary of $1,200 a year, in place of Mr. Ross, who goes to Dawson City.

An assistant to Mr. Rea will be advertised for in the eastern papers. A salary of $900 will be offered. Duties to commence 18th August.

It was decided to rent the old Presbyterian church, for use as a school room instead of the old police barracks, which will be vacated August 1st. This will avoid an addition to the staff which would otherwise be required, owing to the rapidly increasing numbers of children attending the schools.

In consequence of the report of the architect on the condition of the school building on College avenue, the trustees and the architect will examine the building with a view to making permanent repairs to the southeast corner.

The following accounts were passed:

J. Hillman, $16.50

J. W. Huff, 34.00

J. Milner, 8.75

Stovel & Co., 5.85

K. W. MacKenzie, 5.70

Pay check, (less 20 per cent.) 750.00

K. A. McLeod reported that since the new foreman went on work at the new school building was progressing satisfactorily.

CLOVER BAR FERRY

The Northwest government having decided that it was unable at present to place a ferry on the Saskatchewan at Clover Bar, A. D. Osborne circulated a subscription and raised $100 to purchase a new cable. The cable was ordered from Ross Bros. to be delivered in ten days. The washouts, however, prevented this part of the contract from being carried out. The old saw was unfit for service and Mr. Secord, M. L. A., has ordered a new one built at J. Walters, to be paid for by subscription in case the government will not undertake the expense.

THE COAST EXCURSION.

The summer excursion to the coast advertised by the C. P. R.—tickets for which are on sale to-day and until Tuesday next, the 15th—gives the people of the prairie region an opportunity to see new sights,—almost to see a new world,—at a reasonable rate. Forty-five dollars for the round trip is not a high figure, although it is somewhat higher than has been paid on special excursions from Alberta. It appears that it is a flat rate from all parts of the prairie country. From Winnipeg the same as from Edmonton. While this does not give Alberta the advantage of its westerly location, we need not grudge Manitoba people the small advantage which they receive. Considering their lack of scenery at home they need the trip worse than Alberta people do. The trip is through to Victoria, and tickets are good for two months, with stop over anywhere, when western people can get away, and everyone who can afford the trip should take it. The change from the everlasting plain to the ever-varying hills; from grass everywhere to trees everywhere; from the black soil and green fields to the harsh rocks and the dazzling snows cannot help but be startling. Judged by prairie standards nature in British Columbia is up side down. The one region is the commercial complement of the other. What we have they have not. What they have we have not. Here unending fields and plains producing wheat and beef. The prairie confining us in and how shall we get food but what shall we do with it. There mountains beyond mountains stored with minerals of incalculable value. But food nowhere, nor the possibility of producing it. The food production of the prairies is necessary to the mineral development of British Columbia, and the development of the mines and the utilization of the forests of that province give a necessary market to the stupendous food production of the Territories.

And the coast, the ocean and the mountains together, and the soft breeze from the Pacific. The great ships coming from and going to all quarters of the globe. A sight indeed to the man or woman whose range of knowledge has for years been bounded by the horizon.

And Victoria, away out in the sea, with its hedge rows, and holly and ivy and roses; its air of exclusiveness and independence. Its pride that it is more English than England.

British Columbia is an absolute contrast to the Northwest and every part of the province differs from every other part. It is hard to say which point excursionists can afford to miss, and yet the country is so large that a life time could not see it all. But what ever else is missed excursionists should not fail to see Victoria.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

The weather since Sunday has been superb. Just like that which preceded the rain falls of Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Growth has been the most rapid on record. Grass is magnificent, and pea vine is very rank in the woods. The streams were not swollen so much by Friday and Saturday's rain to damage any bridges, but the roads which had become perfectly dry were made very bad. They are now dry again, but very rough. The rain being followed by hot, dry weather was of great benefit to the crop.

The rise of the Saskatchewan was out of all proportion to the rain fall, and told of still heavier rains in the mountains to the southwest. News that was more than verified by the great rise of the Bow, Old Man's, Belly and St. Mary's rivers. The river has fallen very considerably since Monday but is still quite high.

With the suspension of railway traffic for a week the bad roads and the close of the fair, business in town has been comparatively quiet.

Anthrax

Monse Jaw Times: This week about a dozen cattle belonging to townsmen, died very suddenly and it was discovered that the cause of death was anthrax, the disease which caused such havoc among the sheep at Swift Current and Medicine Hat last year. Mr. Bold, Snoddy lost the five cows which he purchased at the auction sale in one day. Mr. Hurlburt has lost two or three cows and a bull. Mr. Hannah has lost a fine cow, and John Melanis, the town herdsman, has lost a bull. The animals take sick and die within an hour. At first their front legs seem to get powerless and they are unable to walk. They then commence to froth at the mouth and seem to suffer much pain.

Staff Sergeant Johnstone, of North Portal, arrived this afternoon and is looking into the matter with a view to blotting the disease out of the district before it is allowed to spread.

DEDICATION OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The opening service, at the new Presbyterian church on Sunday, will be in charge of the Rev. Dr. Herdman, superintendent of the synod of British Columbia, which includes Alberta, assisted by the Rev. D. G. McQueen, who will arrive to-night.

Services will be held at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m.

On Monday a social will be given. Tea will be served in the basement and lectures delivered in the auditorium.

On Wednesday evening there will be a concert in the church, at which members from the choir of the different churches will assist.

Sunday school will be held in the new church at 3 p. m. on Sunday afternoon.

Fatal Accident.

Medicine Hat News: A very sad accident, which resulted in the death of James H. Clark, occurred at the C. P. R. coal chutes here on Monday afternoon. Clark, who is a C. P. R. fireman was acting as engine turner at the round house in place of the regular man who is off duty. Monday, about 14 o'clock he took engine No. 667 down to the coal chute to coal her up, there being no other person on the engine with him. It is supposed he must have got up to pull the rope attached to the coal chute to release the door and let the coal into the tender, when he must have slipped and fell into the pit of the tender just as the chute was com-

The unfortunate man was not missed for several hours after the accident happened, it being after 17 o'clock when it was discovered that he was under the coal in the tender. On a post mortem examination of the body, it was found that the neck had been badly broken—so badly that the broken bones had severed several arteries, which caused profuse bleeding from the mouth.
